Yellow warning
Snow

Between 16:00 Tue 5 Apr 2022 and
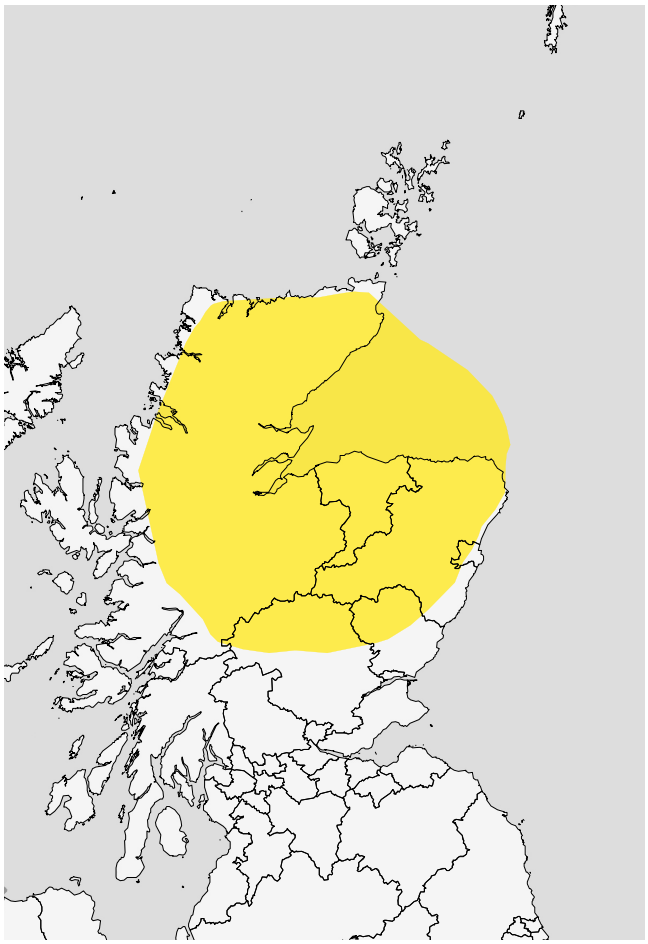
11:00 Wed 6 Apr 2022



Snow may cause some disruption across parts of Scotland later Tuesday and overnight into Wednesday.

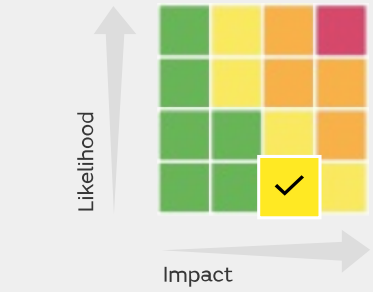
What to expect

- There is a small chance of travel delays on roads with some stranded vehicles and passengers, along with delayed or cancelled rail and air travel
- There is a slight chance that some rural communities could become cut off
- There is a small chance that power cuts will occur and other services, such as mobile phone coverage, may be affected
- A small chance that untreated pavements and cycle paths become impassable

Further details

Persistent rain over northern Scotland will increasingly turn to snow over high ground during Tuesday, then perhaps to lower levels in the afternoon and evening. This is likely to bring some accumulations above 100-200m with 3-7cm in places and perhaps 10cm above 300m.

There is some uncertainty by Tuesday night but rain and snow is likely to become focused further north across Scotland with a small chance of 2-5 cm settling at low levels by Wednesday morning and 15 cm above 200-300m - this most likely across Caithness, Sutherland and Ross and Cromarty.



Very low likelihood of medium impacts
